Activity Information

The Johns Hopkins School of Medicine provides Continuing Medical Education (CME) credits for physicians, as well as Other Credits for non-physicians. The Johns Hopkins School of Medicine has approved this activity for 17 MOC PRA Category 1 Credit™. Physicians should claim only the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

The Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine, Department of Medicine, Division of Rheumatology presents the 16th Annual Advances in the Diagnosis and Treatment of the Rheumatic Diseases. Given the wide variety of rheumatologic disorders, and an ever-advancing knowledge of the pathophysiology underlying these disorders, clinicians must be prepared to identify and diagnose these conditions as early as possible. This annual symposium, in collaboration with the American College of Rheumatology (ACR), will feature experts in the field of rheumatology who will discuss updates in the management of rheumatic diseases.

OBJECTIVES

After attending this activity, the learner will demonstrate the ability to:

• Discuss updates in the management of Rheumatoid Arthritis.
• Identify updates in the management of psoriatic arthritis.
• Review updates in the management of ankylosing spondylitis.
• Discuss strategies for the early diagnosis of these conditions.

Accreditation Statement

The Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) to provide continuing medical education for physicians. This program has been planned and implemented in accordance with the accreditation standards for approved CME programs by the ACCME. This program is also approved for Canada CME1 Credit by the Medical Council of Canada, through the Canadian Medical Association, and meets the criteria for Maintenance of Certification (MOC) activity for the American Board of Internal Medicine (ABIM), for the purpose of granting ABIM MOC credit.

How to Obtain Credit
Post activity an online evaluation will be available to attendees to evaluate the activity and individual presentations and to identify future educational needs. Upon completion of the evaluation, the learner must attest to the number of hours in attendance. Credits earned will be added to the learner transcript immediately available for print. The last day to access the evaluation and attest to your credits is May 19, 2020. An outcome survey will be sent to all physician attendees within two months post activity to assist us in determining what impact this activity had on the learner’s practice.
